

ARMY HORSES RUN RACES ON LAST DAY OF KINGSTON FAIR

The fourth day of the Kingston fair, one of the races being between horses owned by the U. S. government or officers of the army. One race was for the officers exclusively and the other was for members of Rhode Island's cavalry Troop D of Providence. While there was a very large attendance there were not as many present as at the light races which constituted the racing program for the first three days of the fair.

It was estimated that the fourth day's attendance was about 5,000 another record for the five day fair. There were practically no features or added attractions outside the horse racing. The exhibits were largely patronized as was the midway. There were several hundred automobiles parked in the grounds as against 1,000 on Governor's Day.

The first race on the card was for three year olds and upwards with a purse of $100. The distance in this race was one mile. The horses were bunched and the race was made, the distance being made in 1:23. The race was won by a bay owned by P. S. Randolph and ridden by J. Kelly. Sir Galahad, owned by General Dempsey and ridden by A. Clement was second. The third horse in place was Spirit of France owned by John H. Shea and ridden by G. Clement. Yosemite, Saffraux and Pomeroy also ran.

The second race was for hawks for a purse of $100. The distance was five furlongs. The horses were bunched and the race was made, the distance being made in 1:12. The race was won by a bay owned by P. S. Randolph and ridden by J. Kelly. Sir Galahad, owned by General Dempsey and ridden by A. Clement was second. The third horse in place was Spirit of France owned by John H. Shea and ridden by G. Clement. Yosemite, Saffraux and Pomeroy also ran.

Place a piece of clean red cloth under the ornaments when the dance begins is arranged on the rug and have the whole in place. When each couple is seated it is to be placed on the sewing machine with red thread, matching the color in the trimmings of the dance. The arrangement of the dance may be varied, the dancing circle can be effectively used on all four sides of the rug, and a group of four of the circle rubbing planned for the center. Or the corner rabbits may be scattered all over the rug.

The bridge at the ends of the rug may be cut from a strip of red cloth four inches wide and three inches long, leaving a binding of white cloth, one inch wide at the top to hold it all together.

STONINGTON

Before the inauguration of mail carrier service, private mail receptacles must be provided by patrons desiring their mail left at their residences. The receptacle may be either a suitable box or a slot cut on the front door. The postmaster cannot commend the delivery of mail to any residence where this requirement has not been met. Patrons within the limits fixed by the department must decide the way mail is to be received, whether through a slot of a box or by carrier. If patrons so direct all mail intended for them, however addressed, will be delivered in one of these ways but if such directions are not given mail will be delivered as addressed. Business houses will not be required to provide receptacles if any one is at hand to receive the mail and the stores, etc., are open when the carrier calls. To help the public in deciding between receiving through slot of box or by carrier, the extent of the service is given as follows: Sundays no deliveries or collection by carrier and mail after the last collection on Saturdays should be deposited in the open letter box at the post office to avoid delay. On holidays only one delivery and collection will be made; other days two deliveries and collections.

Postmaster Leahy has requested all patrons desiring discontinuing postoffice boxes to advise him to that effect by September 20. Each patron is asked to advise correspondents what his correct address is to be, post office box, number, or street and number, that all mail may be distributed correctly and avoid delay in delivering and distributing. Five collection boxes in localities in and near the borough will be put up.

WESTERLY

Although there was a lengthy session of the Third District court Friday morning but two minor cases were disposed of, one being a suit about a book account, and the other a slander case. Judge Oliver H. Williams presided.

The first case was that of Fred P. Babcock vs. George J. Booktaub in which the plaintiff sued for $104.45, which he alleged the defendant owed him on a book account. Upon establishment of proof of claim, the court awarded him judgment for the total amount.

The case of Mamie Nadolny vs. Helen Planosky was then called. This case arose from the alleged fact that the defendant was circulating derogatory remarks about said plaintiff's reputation. It was alleged that on one occasion, in the presence of two other women, the defendant said that the plaintiff did not have children because she got rid of them by some means.

After hearing the testimony of three witnesses with the aid of an interpreter, Judge Williams non-suited the plaintiff's case for lack of proof. Attorney Clarence E. Roche appeared for the plaintiff and the defendant was represented by Attorney J. J. McGovern of Providence.

All other cases on the docket were continued for a week, and no new writs were entered.

The officials of the coming North Stonington Grange fair are already making plans for the event, one involving repairing the White Rock bridge, now owned by the Shore Line Electric Company. The North Stonington people feel that the opening of the automobile road from Westerly to Plainfield would accommodate a great many people and be a great help to the town.

The members of Merrill Post, No. 16 American Legion, will turn out twice Saturday to accord military funerals to the late Mr. and Mrs. William Kenworthy and family after spending several weeks with Westerly relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Yonkey and daughter Geraldine of Toledo O. have returned after being called here by the death of Mrs. Yonkey's mother Mrs. John E. Gavitt.

The Westerly Red Cross chapter has received an invitation to send delegates to the National convention that will be held in Columbus O. from Oct. 4 to 8.

The Westerly Kaceys will play the first Hope Valley team here Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. Walter Hoar and daughter Jane have returned to their home in Portland Me. after a short visit with Westerly relatives.

Miss Mary M. Whipple of Elm St. has returned to Columbus Miss. where she will resume her duties as instructor at the Women's State College.

Leonard Deleahanty of Summer St. is spending a few days with relatives in Southbridge Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Mitchell and son Carl, left Friday morning for a motor trip through the White mountains. They expect to be gone about a week.

The Thursday evening C. E. meeting was held by Mrs. Nye. The topic was "How to Make the Most of the Bible." It proved a good meeting.
